MISCELLANY.

COMMUNICATED FOR THE GAZETTE.

LORD BYRON.

Although the able reviewer, from whom we have borrowed this sketch of Lord Byron, has said, "We are not writing Lord Byron's private history," the connexion he has traced between the poetry and the character and feelings of his lordship is sufficiently discernable to render it as interesting, and probably more so, than an exact biographical account could be made by any address of the writer. It is, as we have already said, a history of the whole man is not expanded to broad day light, but the workings of his heart are occasionally unfolded, if we may so call it, through various loopholes in the Review, while the prodigious genius and unparalleled endowments of his lordship's all luminous mind are continually presented to us in the full blaze of unremitting splendor. It were a pity that such a delicious repast for the intelligent and tasteful should be exclusively hoarded up in the pages of a review, the perusal of which can fall to the share of but a very small portion of the public; and, therefore, we have undertaken, and will continue till the whole shall be laid before our readers, to copy it into our columns.

"The poet thus gifted, thus honored, thus admired, no longer entitled to regard himself as one defrauded of his just fame, but crowned with all which the public could bestow, was now in a situation apparently as enviable as could be attained through mere literary celebrity. The sequel may be given in the words in which the author, adopting here more distinctly the character of Childe Harold, has resumed his pilgrim's staff, when it was hoped he had set down for life a denizen of his native country. The length of the quotation will be pardoned by those who can feel at once the moral interest and poetical beauty with which it abounds.

VIII.

Something too much of this: but now 'tis past,
And the spell closes with its silent seal.
Long absent Harold re-appears at last;
He of the breast which fain no more would feel, [but ne'er] heal.
Wrung with the wounds which kill not,
Yet time, who changes all, had alter'd him In soul and aspect as in age's years steal Fire from the mind as vigor from the limb; [near the brim]
And life's enchanted cup but sparkles

IX.

His had been quaff'd too quickly, and he found The dregs were wormwood; but he fill'd
And from a purer font, on holier ground,
And deem'd its spring perpetual; but in vain!
Still round him clung invisibly a chain,
Which gall'd forever, fettering though unseen,
And heavy, though it clank'd not; worn Which pined, although it spoke not, and grew keen.
[many a scene]
Entering, with every step he took, though

X.

Secure in guarded coldness, he had mix'd Again in fancied safety with his kind,
And deem'd his spirit now so firmly fix'd And sheath'd with an invulnerable mind,
That, if no joy, no sorrow lurk'd behind;
And he, as one, might midst the many stand [to find]
Unheeded, searching through the crowd Fit speculation! such as in strange land He found in wonder-works of God and nature's hand.

XI.

But who can view the ripen'd rose, nor seek To wear it? Who can curiously behold The smoothness of the sheen of beauty's cheek, Nor feel the heart can never all grow
Who can contemplate fame through clouds unfold [scintillate]
The star which rises o'er her steep, nor Harold Once more within the vortex roll'd On with the giddy circle, chasing time, Yet with a nobler aim than in his youth's fond prime.

XII.

But soon he knew himself the most unfit Of men to herd with man; with whom he [said]
Little in common; untouch'd to submit His thoughts to others, though his soul [was quell'd]
In youth by his own thoughts; still would He would not yield dominion of his mind To spirits against whom his own rebell'd; Frenzied though in delusion; which could [find]
A life within itself, to breathe without

XIII.
Where rose the mountain, there to him were friends; [home] Where roll'd the ocean, thereon was his Where a blue sky and glowing clime extended,

He had the passion & the power to roam;
The desert, cavern, forest, breaker's foam, Were unto him companionship; they spoke

A mutual language, clearer than the tone Of his land's tongue, which he would oft forsake [on the lake].
For nature's pages glass'd by sun beams

XIV.
Like the Chaldean, he could watch the stars, [bright]
Till he had peopled them with beings As their own beams; and earth and earth-born jars

And human frailties were forgotten quite:
Could he have kept his spirit to that flight He had been happy; but this elay will sink

Its spark immortal, envying in the light To which it mounts, as if to break the link [woos us to its brink].
That keeps us from yon heaven, which

XV.
But in man's dwelling he became a thing Restless and worn, and stern and wear-some, [wing]
Droop'd as a wild born falcon with clipt To whom the boundless air alone were home;

Then came his fit again, which to o'er-As eagerly the barr'd up bird will beat his breast & break against his wry dome Till the blood tinge his plumage, so the XVI.

Self-exiled Harold wanders forth again, With naught of hope left, but with less of gloom;
The very knowledge that he liv'd in vain,
That all was over on this side the tomb, Had made despair a smilingness assume,
Which, thought 'twere wild, as on the plundered wreck, [doom]

Did yet inspire a cheer which he forbore

Wm. B. Grove is chosen President of the Branch Bank of the United States at Pawtucketville.
A proposition is before the legislature of Georgia to tax the Branch of the United States Bank established in that state.
A Bank has just gone into operation at Shawnoctown, in the Illinois territory, of which Samuel R. Campbell is President, and John Reeves Cashier—having been chartered at the last session by the legislature of that territory. [Nat. Int.]

LIEUTENANT BROOKS.

The Buffalo Gazette informs us, that "Several officers of the army, at Detroit, friends of this gallant and accomplished officer, son of Governor Brooks, of Massachusetts, who fell 10th of September, 1813, in Perry's victory, and who was buried on Put-in-Bay Island, have removed his remains to the city of Detroit, where they were interred with military honors. The clergy, civil, military and citizens, all testified their respect for the memory of the deceased."

A VERY "NOVEL OCCURRENCE."

Is thus related in the Geneva Gazette of the 12th instant:—One evening last week, during a momentary absence of the editor, the press and printing type of the Waterloo Gazette, printed at Wat-terloo in Seneca county, were carried off by some unknown persons, and nothing has since been heard of them! Much warmth has been excited by a discussion in the Gazette between the friends of the late sheriff and present sheriff of Seneca county; or more correctly speaking, between the friends and opponents of the late sheriff; and thus has terminated the paper warfare."

THE COTTON CROP.

We lament to state that our most gloomy forebodings are more than realized, in relation to the growing crop of cotton.—As far as we can learn, & our enquiries have not been limited, the failure in this staple of the country will be greater than ever known. The growth of the plant, it is stated is luxuriant beyond the example of former years; but the progress of the rot is equally unprecedented.
The staple is also unusually fine, and calculated to command a greater price—never was it known better. The cause of the calamity that afflicts us, is beyond the ken of mortals. No man can discover it—it is there; and the planter is obliged to bear in patience with the evil if we are not deceived by representations, the planters of this and the neighboring parishes, will not average in gathering more than 500 lbs. of seed cotton to the acre; when in ordinary years, the average is from 12 to 1500 lbs. to the acre—thus showing a deficit of more than half a crop.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 10.

COMMERCIAL CAUTION.

Several American vessels, which have arrived at this port, within the last few weeks, coastwise, have been obliged to pay Foreign Tonnage money, in consequence of the crew not being three-fourths composed of American registered seamen, agreeably to the requisitions of the new Navigation Act, which took effect on the 1st Oct. last. It is necessary that the above mentioned proportion of the seamen should be in possession of protections, or other evidence of citizenship, to entitle the vessel to an exemption from the tonnage duty.

FROM FRANCE. By the arrival at Gloucester, on Monday evening last, of the brig St. Paul, captain Wheelwright, from Havre de Grace, which place she left on the 9th October, Mr. Hopper has received from his correspondent, Rouen papers to October 7.

These papers are filled with reports of the trial of persons concerned in a very extensive plot, under the insignia of L'E-pingle Noire (the black pin). They are prosecuted under the idea that their object was to expel Louis; but it would seem they aimed principally at the expulsion of the allied troops. The King's advocate maintained that their numbers already amounted to 80,000. The lawyers of the accused supported the cause of their clients with great boldness; so much so as to excite the threats of the Advocate General. They maintained that there was no plot, and turned the officers of police into ridicule and contempt. The jury, after several hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of NOT GUILTY.

A Paris article of October 4th, says—"From a statement of the commerce of France during the year 1816, it appears that the importations of Dunkirk, Cherbourg, Havre, Brest, L'Orient, Rochefort and Toulon, amounted to 42,151,511 francs, and the exports to 20,104,126, the balance in favor of importations, 20,046, 585 francs."

At Toulouse, a person had been condemned to three months imprisonment and a fine, for having traced on the sand the figure of an eagle!

The accounts of the Cape Ann serpent are spreading throughout the continent.
Gen. Vaux blew out his brains at Dijon on the 24th September. Cause not stated.

From the Daily Advertiser—same date.

A Berlin article of Sept. 25, states that after long discussions, it had been determined by the government to impose a duty of 30 per cent on all British manufactures imported into the Prussian states.

The Spanish and Neapolitan governments, as well as Sweden and Sardinia, have solicited of the Porte the liberty of navigating the Black Sea. It is said that the Turkish government demands a very high compensation for the privilege. The conferences with Baron Stroganoff, the Russian minister, relative to boundaries, were still going on.

It is settled that the marriage of the hereditary Grand Duke of Tuscany with the Princess Maria Ann, daughter of the King of Saxony, is to take place in the latter part of October.

A plan for a new palace for the king of the Netherlands, at Brussels, has been accepted, and the work is to commence immediately. The estimated expense is 3 or 4 millions of florins. Of 13,544 births in North Holland, during the year 1816, 1362 were illegitimate.

From the Continent—same date.

In every quarter of Europe the Peace appears consolidating; war establishments every where are continued decrease and the arts which support, enlighten and comfort men, increasing. The navies of Europe have almost literally sunk into nauseous fleets; but those vessels which are building for future combats are constructed on plans copied from the American navy yard.

France continues the most interesting part of Europe. The King appeared constantly employed in his cabinet councils, holding levees, reviewing his troops, or distributing benefactions. Whenever he appeared in public, he was welcomed with the cries of Vive le Roi. The old French Marshals, particularly Oudinot, continued great favorites at court. All trials and arrests for sedition had subsided.

In Prussia and several other kingdoms of Germany, constitutional questions and systems of representative government, were freely discussed, and were in train of being adopted. The respect of monarchs for people, and vice versa, appearing to gain ground daily.

The Emperor of Russia was prosecuting his splendid journey.

FROM THE RICHMOND ENQUIRER.
Sketches of the life and character of Patrick Henry. Printed at Philadelphia, pp. 437.

Here ends the 3d section of the work.
Our author commences his fourth by acknowledging that Mr. Henry had not the same talents for writing as for speaking; which leads him into an examination of the question, whether there be really, as some have imagined, any incongruity in their union.—He decides in the negative, and traces the rareness of the occurrence to "defective education, taking this word in its larger, Roman sense." "If, [says he] the genius of the orator has been properly trained in his youth to both pursuits, instead of being injured, it will I apprehend, be found to derive additional grace, beauty, and even sublimity, from the discipline. His Rights will be at least as bold—they will be better sustained—and whether he chooses to descend in majestic circles, or to stoop on headlong wing, his performance will not be the worse for having been taught to fly."

"But while, [he adds] with reference to his own fame and the lasting benefits which he might have conferred on the world, we lament his want of literary discipline, it is not impossible that, for the times in which he lived, and for the more immediate purposes of the American revolution, the popular opinion may be correct. The people seem to have admired him the more for his want of discipline. 'His genius,' they say, 'was unbroken, and too full of fire to bear the curb of composition. He delighted to swim the flood, to breast the torrent, and to scale the mountain: and supported as he was, in all public bodies, by masters of the pen, they insist, that it was even fortunate for the revolution, that his genius was left at large, to revel in all the wildness and boldness of nature; that it enabled him to infuse, more successfully, his own intrepid spirit into the measures of the revolution; that it rendered his courage more contagious, and enabled him to achieve, by a kind of happy rash-ness, what perhaps, had been lost by a better regulated mind."

Congress having risen and Mr. H. returned to his native county, (Hanover) to which he had come back some time previous from Louisiana, we find him on the 20th of March 1775, a member from that county in the second convention of delegates of Virginia, which now met in the old church in the town of Richmond.— Soon after the convention was organized, he moved several strong and mainly resolutions, the substance of which was, that to secure our rights and liberties from the further violations with which they are threatened, the colony should be immediately placed in a state of defence by embodying, arming and disciplining the militia. This proposition brought on a violent debate between the moderate party and those who, like Mr. Henry, were for at once going all lengths. A most interesting account is given of it by our author, with a sketch of the speeches on both sides. As to those of Mr. Henry's opponents, they are possibly not genuine, but resorted to by him to embellish his history, by giving us a view of the sentiments of different parties. This practice of putting speeches on great occasions into the mouths of their chief personages, was a frequent one with the ancient writers; but has been laid aside by the moderns, we think, without any good reason; and we are glad to see our author resort to it. The speech of Mr.
Henry, however, or rather this skeleton of his speech, is undoubtedly genuine, for it exhibits stronger marks of the character of his eloquence than any other contained in the work. It is indeed a sublime appeal to the reason and passions of his auditors, and bears the strongest impress of his extraordinary genius.— We regret that we cannot give it entire to our readers, and that we are obliged to content ourselves with extracting the two last paragraphs:

"They tell us, sir," continued Mr.
Henry, "that we are weak—unable to cope with so formidable an adversary—But when shall we be stronger? Will it be the next week or the next year?
Will it be when we are totally disarmed; and when a British guard shall be stationed in every house? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction?
Shall we acquire the means of effectual resistance, by lying supinely on our backs, and hugging the delusive phantom of hope, until our enemies shall have bound us, hand and foot? Sir, we are not weak, if we make a proper use of those means which the God of nature hath placed in our power. Three millions of people, armed in the holy cause of liberty; and in such a country as that which we possess, are invincible by any force which our enemy can send against us. Besides, sir, we shall not fight our battles alone. There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations; and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us. The battle, sir, is not to the strong alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the brave. Besides, sir, we have no election. If we were base enough to desire it, it is now too late to retire from the contest. There is no retreat, but in submission and slavery! Our chains are forged. Their clanking may be heard on the plains of Boston! The war is inevitable—and let it come!! I repeat it, sir, let it come!!"

"It is in vain, sir, to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may cry, peace, peace,— but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the north will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms! Our Brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle? What is it that gentlemen wish? What would they have?
Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God!
I know not what course others may take;
but as for me, I will not shrink, with my arms extended aloft, his brow knit, every feature marked with the resolute purpose of his soul, and his voice swelled to its boldest note of exclamation—'Give me liberty, or give me death!'"

"He took his seat. No murmur of applause was heard. The effect was too deep. After the trace of a moment, several members started from their seats.
The cry, 'to arms,' seemed to quiver on every lip, and gleam from every eye!
Richard H. Lee arose and supported Mr. Henry, with his usual spirit and elegance. But his melody was lost amidst the aspirations of that ocean, which the master spirit of the storm had lifted up on high. That supernatural voice sounded in their ears, and shivered along their arteries. They heard, in every pause, the cry of liberty or death. They became impatient of speech

—their souls were on fire for action.
"The resolutions were adopted."

After various other measures adopted in this convention, of which Mr. Henry seems to have been the unrivalled leader, it adjourned—and at this place closes our author's fourth section.

His fifth is entirely taken up with relating an incident in the life of Mr.
Henry, as striking as any in it, and one which places his character in a point of view, entirely new to us.— Heretofore we have seen him the ornament of the bar, or the leader of a popular Assembly—now he appears before us the military commander of an armed force. The object of the expedition he headed was to oblige Lord Dunmore to restore the twenty barrels of powder he had clandestinely taken on the night of the 20th April, 1775, from the Magazine at Williamsburg, or to make compensation for it in money. In this alternative he completely succeeded, as will appear from the following curious receipt:

"Doncastle's Ordinary, New Kent,
May 1, 1775, received from the hon.
Richard Corbin, esq. his Majesty's receiver general, 330l. as a compensation for the gun powder lately taken out of the public Magazine by the governor's order: which money I promise to convey to the Virginia delegates at the general congress, to be under their direction, laid out in gunpowder for the colony's use, and to be stored as they shall direct, until the next colony convention, or general assembly: unless it shall be necessary, in the mean time, to use the same in the defence of this colony. It is agreed, that in case the next convention shall determine that any part of the said money ought to be returned to his majesty's said receiver general, that the same shall be done accordingly.

PATRICK HENRY, Jun.
"TEST, SAMUEL MEREDITH, PARKE GOODALL."

"Thus," says our author, "the same man, whose genius had in the year 1765, given the first political impulse to the revolution; had now the additional honor of heading the first military movement in Virginia, in support of the same cause."

To the whole section, we beg leave to refer such of our readers, as desire to become well acquainted with the spirit & temper of the times, & with the noble conduct of their gallant forefathers. It is in our opinion as perfect a narrative, as fine a piece of historical painting, as can be found in any author, ancient or modern.— If this had been the only production of Mr. Wirt's pen, it would have induced every good judge of fine writing to regret that he had devoted so little of his time to composition; and now it points him out as one of the few men who are able to give to the public that desideratum in American Literature; a good history of Virginia.
Take as an illustration of these observations the following paragraph, selected at random from the section:

"In the mean time, the march of this gallant corps, in arms, headed by a man of Mr. Henry's distinction, produced the most striking effects in every quarter. Correspondent companies started up on all sides, and hastened to throw themselves under the banners of Henry. It is believed that five thousand men, at least, were in arms, and were crossing the country to crowd around his standard, and support it with their lives. The march was conducted in the most perfect order, and with the most scrupulous respect to the country through which they passed. The ranks of the royalists were filled with dismay. Lady Dun-more and her family retired to the Fowey man of war, then lying off the town of Little York. Even the Patriots in Williamsburg were daunted by the boldness, and, as they deemed it, the rashness of the enterprise.—
Messenger after messenger, was dispatched to meet Mr. Henry on the way, and beg him to desist from his purpose, and discharge his men. It was in vain. He was inflexibly resolved to effect the purpose of his expedition, or to perish in the attempt.
The messengers were, therefore, detained, that they might not report his strength—and the march was continued with all possible celerity. The Governor issued a proclamation, in which he denounced the movement, and called upon the people of the country to resist it. He could as easily have called spirits 'from the vasty deep.' He seems not to have relied much, himself, on the efficacy of his proclamation. The palace was therefore filled with arms, and a de-

Land for sale.

A TRACT OF LAND, containing 400 acres; the Farm on which I live, in the county of Prince William, known by the name of WALNUT FARM, adjoining the Thoroughfare Mills.—One fourth of this land is heavily timbered, the residue is in clover and meadow—the buildings are good—a very fine apple orchard—a good garden with every Lawnville for Sale.

THE subscriber will sell at public sale, on the premises, on the 10th of December next, the above TRACT of LAND, containing between five and six hundred acres, lying in the county of Prince William, Virginia. This desirable farm is situate within four miles of the two large western turnpike roads, leading from Washington and Alexandria; from whence it is distant thirty miles.

The highly improved state of this farm, its contiguity to market, salubrity of air, agreeable and genteel society, render it one of the most desirable pieces of property ever offered for sale in this part of the country. There is on this farm every convenience: an excellent barn, good stables, an orchard of peach and apple trees, not equalled by any in its vicinity, and as well if not better watered than any of the neighboring farms. One third of the purchase money will be required down, the balance in two equal annual installments with interest. Negroes will be equally acceptable as cash. The subscriber will be on the farm and will show it to any person desirous of purchasing.
N. B. One third is in woods of large and valuable timber.

G. R. A. BROWNE.
November 26. dts

on high. That supernatural voice sounded in their ears, and shiver-along their arteries. They heard, every pause, the cry of liberty or
their souls were on fire for action.
The resolutions were adopted.
opted in this convention, of which
r. Henry seems to have been the rivalled leader, it adjourned—and this place closes our author's fourth column.
His fifth is entirely taken up with nating an incident in the life of Mr.
Henry, as striking as any in it, and e which places his character in a int of view, entirely new to us.— erefore we have seen him the or-ment of the bar, or the leader of a pular Assembly—now he appears ore us the military commander of armed force. The object of the exdition he headed was to oblige Lord unmore to restore the twenty barrels powder he had clandestinely taken on the night of the 20th April, 75, from the Magazine at Wil-msburg, or to make compensation it in money. In this alternative completely succeeded, as will ap-ear from the following curious result:
"Doncastle's Ordinary, New Kent, ay 1, 1775, received from the honrable Corbin, esq. his Majesty's eiver general, 350l. as a compensation for the gun powder lately taken out of the public Magazine by the ernor's order: which money I proise to convey to the Virginia dele-ates at the general congress, to be, nder their direction, laid out in gunpowder for the colony's use, and to be stored as they shall direct, until
the next colony, convention, or general assembly: unless it shall be ne-
me in the defence of this colony. It is greed, that in case the next convenon shall determine that any part of said money ought to be returned to his majesty's said receiver general, at the same shall be done accordingly."
PATRICK HENRY, Jun.
"Test, SAMUEL MEREDITH,
"Thus," says our author, "the ame man, whose genius had in the ear 1765, given the first political impulse to the revolution, had now the ditional honor of heading the first ilitary movement in Virginia, in upport of the same cause."
To the whole section, we beg leave o refer such of our readers, as desire o become well acquainted with the pirit & temper of the times, & with he noble conduct of their gallant fore-athers. It is in our opinion as per-ect a narrative, as fine a piece of istorical painting, as can be found any author, ancient or modern.— This had been the only production f Mr. Wirt's pen, it would have indued every good judge of fine writing o regret that he had devoted so little f his time to composition; and now oints him out as one of the few en who are able to give to the pubic that desideratum in American Lierature; a good history of Virginia.
Take as an illustration of these obser-ations the following paragraph, se-ected at random from the section:
"In the mean time, the march of his gallant corps, in arms, headed by a man of Mr. Henry's distinction, roduced the most striking effects in very quarter. Corresponding com-anies started up on all sides, and steemed to throw themselves under he banners of Henry. It is believed hat five thousand men, at least, were n arms, and were crossing the coun-ry to crowd around his standard, and upport it with their lives. The march as conducted in the most perfect orer, and with the most scrupulous respect to the country through which they
passed. The ranks of the royalists
were filled with dismay. Lady Dun-
more and her family retired to the Fowey man of war, then lying off the
own of Little York. Even the Patients in Williamsburg were daunted
by the boldness, and, as they deemed
Messenger after messenger, was disatched to meet Mr. Henry on the
purpose, and discharge his men. It was in vain. He was inflexibly resolved to effect the purpose of his expedition, or to perish in the attempt.
The messengers were, therefore, determined, that they might not report his strength—and the march was continued with all possible celerity. The Governor issued a proclamation, in
country to resist it. He could as easily have called spirits "from the eastly deep." He seems not to have relied much, himself, on the efficacy of his proclamation. The palace was herefore filled with arms, and a deachment of marines ordered up from the Fowey.

"Lord Dunmore, however, thought better of this subject, and caused Mr.
Henry to be met at Doncastle's, about sun-rise on the same morning, with the receiver general's bill of exchange, for the sum required."

Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a grey coat and pantaloons, but as he was well provided with clothing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. It is believed he went off with his wife, who it appears left Richmond at the same time: she is very black, and, I believe, somewhat pitted with the small pox, talks a great deal, of short stature, and rather thick made. Ned is very artful, and may probably attempt to pass for a free man; he has a down look when spoken to. The above reward will be given if taken out of Richmond or Manchester, and twenty-five dollars if taken in either place, and all reasonable expenses paid for delivering him to the subscriber.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

Lee's Medicine Store,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Terebra or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes, a life and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the youngest part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number who in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS and MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended.

HALL'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than can be adduced of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age. They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions. To persons who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Lowness of spirits back

Loss of appetite Indigestion Impurity of blood Melancholy Hysterical Affections Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic goar, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, &c. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ring worms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of the advertisement.
